Earlier all the users were sending queries to us only – it has minimized requirements of support from e-Granthalaya Team upto 50%. During the year 2017 – over 102 Queries were submitted by the users with multiple answers from many of the users themselves.

Libraries should change with time to attract children

July 28, 2017 00:00 IST

Books are often considered as a man's best friend. School libraries were conventionally considered as a boring room full of books where students were supposed to spend an hour, thrice a week, without any base or aim. Time has changed and so have libraries. At our school, we organise activities that encourage students to read and review books. We have a reading hour for students from classes 1 to 12. We strongly believe that the future of Libraries lies in digitisation and we are gearing up to launch e-Granthalaya software which enables digital allotment of books to the students. We also aim to start a multimedia library.

INVC NEWS
New Delhi,

The Central Council for Research in Unani Medicine (CCRUM) has organized a three-day National Workshop on e-Granthalaya 4.0 for Automation and Networking of Government Libraries in New Delhi from 2nd-4th May, 2017. With the objective to train library professionals on e-Granthalaya 4.0, the latest version of the library management software developed by National Informatics Centre (NIC), the workshop comprises of theoretical and hands-on training sessions on its admin, cataloging, circulation and serial modules.

Inaugurating the workshop, Prof. Vd. K.S. Dhiman, Director General IC, CCRUM said that we are living in a world where not everyone is able to spare time to visit physical libraries and networking of libraries in such a condition can be very helpful in conducting research and academic activities efficiently. He further said that e-libraries could also be a tool for transmission from physical books to e-books that can preserve our environment apart from saving a lot of money spent on procurement of physical books. He urged the participants to get used to the e-Granthalaya software and adopt it for automation and networking of libraries at their respective institutions in order to ease the dissemination of knowledge.

Speaking on the occasion, Shri Ram Kumar Matoria, Technical Director, NIC said that the Government of India provides the free of cost facility of adopting e-Granthalaya software and uploading the data on NIC cloud to the government libraries to facilitate their automation and networking. He urged that like CCRUM other institutes of AYUSH should also come forward and adopt this facility extended by the NIC.

Earlier in his welcome address, Shri R.L.U. Choudhury, Assistant Director (CCRUM) said that the CCRUM has already adopted e-Granthalaya software making the catalogues of its eight libraries attached with its various institutes freely accessible to all globally. He further said that since the NIC has launched 4.0 version of the software with various new features, there was a need to organize such a workshop in order to make the library professionals used to it.

The workshop has 43 participants from different institutions including research councils of AYUSH, Banaras Hindu University and University of Kashmir.
